

What's the Ideal Report Card?

According to Research

Parents want:

1. more regular communication about their child's learning progress.
2. detailed information about how well their child is doing in school.
3. specific, practical suggestions on how they can help their child at home.
4. the teacher to see their child as an unique individual.
5. the teacher to take the time to get to know and care about their child as an individual.
6. individualized comments on report cards.

Teachers want:

1. a more efficient reporting system that matches with how they are teaching and assessing the curriculum in the classroom.
2. to clearly communicate student learning and share information about how a student can achieve even more.

The ultimate intention of the new report card format is to achieve these goals and make the reporting process meaningful for parents, students and teachers.

We invite your feedback. If you have any questions, concerns, or need further clarification about the report cards please speak with your child's teacher(s) or principal.
